FTOL PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

BY JIM NEILSON

Hello to all our Friends of the Thousand Oaks Library!

As the holiday season approaches, I want to thank all of the Friends of the Library members for your continued membership, and for volunteering your time helping with book sorting, book sales, and other assignments at the two branches of the Thousand Oaks Library. Also thanks to all who are so generous with your donations of books, CDs,

DVDs and videos. Without your support, the Friends would be unable to fulfill our mission of providing monetary support to the Thousand Oaks Library system. Many special programs and improvements at both the Thousand Oaks Library and the Newbury Park library would not be possible without support from our members and community donors.

I would like to thank Jack Heller for assuming the position of coordinator of the History Book Discussion Group which meets on the second Thursday of the month at 7:00 PM at the Goebel Senior Center. And a special thanks to Sai Chandavarkar for coordinating the Friendly Book Discussion Group which meets the first Thursday of the month at 6:30 pm in the Grant R. Brimhall Library Conference Room.

Again I would like to add that your contribution of a little time can go a long way in helping make a positive difference at the Thousand Oaks Library.

SPECIAL EVENTS

BY CAROL WEINER

I want to thank each of you for supporting our Cultural Bus Tours, Special Author Events and of course our sixth One City One Book program this year. We in the Friends are so grateful that you take your time and money to be part of this organization which in turn keeps these fantastic programs going and growing.

I would like to wish each of you the happiest holiday season ever and I hope to see you on up and coming tours and at events put on or sponsored by the Friends. Please look online or see the next issue of FTOL Focus for information about the next Cultural Bus Tour.

My Reading History

Many Thousand Oaks Library users have been asking for a way to keep track of titles they have read or viewed. My Reading History is just the feature you need. It maintains a list of materials that you have checked out, even after the materials have been returned. To enable this feature, users must "Opt In". Once the feature is enabled, the system will begin recording items check out from that instance. Users may start or stop using this feature, as well as delete any or all reading history at any time.

To activate My Reading History, log into My Account, click the My Reading History button. An "Opt-In" button will appear. Click the Opt In button to begin tracking your reading history from that moment forward. Currently, this feature is only available to track printed materials, videos, music CDs, and Spoken Word.

The Library takes patron confidentiality seriously. Only the account holder with the proper login credentials will be able to view and manage the Reading History feature.

New Book Alerts

With New Book Alerts, it is easier than ever to keep track of new additions to the Thousand Oaks Library's collection and place holds quickly and easily. By simply entering your email address, a colorful weekly newsletter will be sent to you showcasing all the new books, spoken word, DVDs and music added to the library's collection that week.

To access this new service, click on the Bestseller Lists icon on the library's website at www.toaks.org/library, then select the "New Book Alerts" logo. Alerts are available via email or RSS feed.

In the weekly newsletter, selected titles with cover art and annotations are displayed. Links to the title in the library's catalog, more information about the book and a Google preview are provided. At the top of the newsletter is a link to View Current Edition Online. This page will display the current newsletter titles (7 days) with links to 14 days and 30 days to broaden access to other recently received new materials, sorted by categories.

THE BIG PICTURE: RETHINKING DYSLLEXIA

1:00 P.M. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 2012

THE THOUSAND OAKS LIBRARY

By conservative estimates, one in five people are dyslexic. Although very bright and often highly creative, they have a difficult time making sense of written language.

On Saturday, December 15, at 1 p.m., the Thousand Oaks Library and the International Dyslexia Association, Los Angeles Branch are hosting a special screening of the film "The Big Picture: Rethinking Dyslexia" directed by James Redford whose son has dyslexia. Mr. Redford will also be here that day to discuss his film and answer questions.

This film reveals that dyslexia is a neurological issue, not a character flaw. It explains that the struggle with the written word is not an indication of one's ability to think, to create, or to solve problems – all valuable skills in the world outside the classroom. Through various interviews, this film also reveals that some of our greatest leaders in business, law, politics and medicine are dyslexics who succeeded in spite of their learning challenges.

"The Big Picture" also shares some of the more practical – and occasionally humorous – tips on how to deal with dyslexia on a daily basis. Hopefully, this film will help dyslexics and their families realize that the challenges of early education will be behind them one day, and that the future can – and should – be brighter for dyslexics.

Super-achieving dyslexics (interviewed for the film) revered in their fields – from Sir Richard Branson and financier Charles Schwab to politician Gavin Newsom and attorney David Boies – confirm what the children, experts and families suggest: dyslexia carries with it as many rewards as frustrations.

A panel of experts will be available to answer questions following the film. This program is free and open to the public courtesy of the Friends of the Thousand Oaks Library. For more information call 805-449-2660 option 5 or visit www.toaks.org/library.
